QClean For IE

This add-on is designed for Internet Explorer. After installation, you can easily remove Facebook adverts, suggested pages and posts from Facebook news feeds without a trace of browser activity. The extension is the result of a combination of experience in the Internet field and the knowledge of the blocking program requests that was made available. Facebook promotions on the pages of other websites, articles that are recommended to the user (from sidebar, search engine) and posts and other similar items that appear in the news feed on the page are all detected and deleted without leaving traces behind. All information about blocked pages is stored in the browser's extension. The current version of the extension uses the plug-in mechanism to obtain website details. Working principle: When an advertisement is scanned on a website, our plug-in detects it and identifies it as a promotional item. The page is then downloaded and a task is started to remove the content from the server. The list of removed URLs is transferred to the browser extension.

Benefits: Facebook advertisements are removed from the page without user permission. They may be changed to friends and friends of friends. Facebook newsfeeds are cleaned of promoted and suggested articles. The user is no longer interested in browsing those pages. The ads are viewed even if the page is blocked by your browser. How to install: To install the add-on, simply follow the instructions provided in the attached manual. Some free software is protected with copy right or trademark: Windows, Internet Explorer and all other items used in the installation process. In order to download the file, you need to unblock the software. The instructions are provided in the manual. We do not encourage using software that is unlicensed. If you have already unblocked the software, you can ignore these instructions. Comments Can it be used for that Russian site? I have 5 years
